Colonel Meyer Supply Director

Col. Jack L. Meyer, a veteran of 34 years of army service, has assumed his duties as Director of Supply at Fort Benning, succeeding Col. Stephen B. Massey who will retire at the end of the month.

Col. Meyer came to Fort Benning from Washington, D. C., where he had been chief of the Supply Division and liaison officer in the Office of Strategic Services for over a year. He had asked for a return to a regular army unit.

Enlisting on October 12, 1909, he went through the successive grades as an enlisted man in the old Sixth Cavalry. He served on the Mexican border with an Iowa National Guard unit and when America entered the World War in 1917 he was commissioned captain in the Quartermaster Corps.

SERVED IN FRANCE
He trained the new Motor Supply Train of the 4th Division at Camp Green, N. C., and went to France with this division. After the battle of Chateau-Thierry he was promoted to the rank of major and returned to the States with his outfit in 1919.

On his return he resumed his rank as captain in the regular army and for 10 years was an instructor of the quartermaster regiment of the Nebraska National Guard.

IN PUERTO RICO
He graduated from the Quartermaster School in 1930 and served at Madison Barracks, N. Y., before being sent to Puerto Rico where he served for three years. There he organized a quartermaster corps unit training center, and as quartermaster of Fort Buchanan in Puerto Rico, and served as QM of the Puerto Rican general depot.

He was promoted to colonel September 23, 1942, while in Puerto Rico, and shortly after went to Washington.

Col. Massey plans to leave the end of the month and will reside at his home in San Antonio, Tex.

POST LAWNS MAY NOW BE WATERED

Lawns and gardens on the Fort Benning reservation may be watered each evening between the hours of 6 and 8:30 o'clock, it is announced in the Daily Bulletin, published at post headquarters. The watering of lawns and gardens on the post was indefinitely suspended on August 31. However, Monday's announcement permits the use of water for this purpose for the two-hour-and-a-half period daily until further notice.

Troop Carrier Command Played Heroic Role To Thwart Jap Fleet

How the Troop Carrier Command of the United States Army Air Forces rushed troops and equipment to Alaska in the dark days when the Jap fleet was in Bering Sea just after the attack on Dutch Harbor—a story of the war which, fully written will rank with the dramatic dash of the famous taxiab army that saved Paris in 1914—was told in part by two holders of the Distinguished Flying Cross now stationed at Lawson Field, Fort Benning.

They are Capt. Ben I. Parker, San Diego, California, now Executive Officer of the Fifth Troop Carrier Squadron, and Capt. Herman J. Parkey, Aurora, Ore., now Operations officer of the same outfit. Capt. Parker was in the Troop Carrier Command at the time the Japs were rampaging around in the Bering Sea last summer, while Capt. Parkey was in the Bomber Command—and in fact was the only flier in the New Guinea area to save Fort Stevens from being captured by the Japs.

"When the Japs hit Dutch Harbor in June of 1942, we had just formed a Troop Carrier Squadron," recalls Capt. Parker, "flew in with the first five ships that made the trip. There has been a great deal written about the wonderful job done by the carriers in ferrying men and supplies into New Guinea to save Fort Stevens—but in Alaska we had no previous experience and nothing to guide us but we did a comparable job about which very little has been written or told."

"Our planes were the only means of getting troops and equipment into Alaska in a hurry. And we went to work. Our 12 planes carried men and equipment 24 hours a day. I made 12 trips from Anchorage to Nome. On my first trip there were two or three huts on the airport. On my last there were thousands of men and plenty of equipment for them."

"The airlines of the United States sent up every available biplane. I can't say just how many, but I think it safe to say that there were more than 150. These planes and their pilots were put to work as fast as they arrived—I was told that there was a plane landing and taking off every five minutes. I do not know all the work these planes did, but if our 12 carried hundreds of thousands of pounds of freight and hundreds of men you can figure that these hastily impressed civilian airline planes must have done much more. Within two weeks, if the Japs had struck Alaska, they would have found it in shape to make an attack very costly indeed."

"But those were dark days. The officers in command knew they had comparatively few soldiers and less planes. They were praying that the Jap airline carriers would come in close enough for us to take the desperate chance of destroying them—but if they should stay out of range of land based planes in an invasion attempt, we would have been just simply out of luck."

"However, when Kiska was

Lefty Wissman and Benny Zientara Are Unanimous Selections for Fort Benning's 1943 'Dream Team'

The Infantry School League's all-star selections, revealed this week, list eleven of the finest ball players to be found in any loop anywhere with Lefty Wissman of the 176th Spirits and Benny Zientara of the Academic Profs being unanimous choices and also sharing the "most valuable player" laurels.

Wissman, the great southpaw pitching ace of the new post, don, the three outfielders chosen are all speedy flycatchers and hard hitters. Lacking only vote of being an all-out choice was Elmer Niebler of the Profs, who was chosen for the right field slot. Bill Richardson of the Spirits is in left and Vern Smith, sensational fielder of the 124th Gators, rated the center field position.

Behind the bat, the coaches chose George Simmons of the Eagles whose great work all season both as a receiver, hitter and manager earned him the nomination. Sparky Sahara, the sparkplug of the champion Spirits, played great ball in the second half and rated plenty of votes but could not quite top the total compiled by Simmons.

Three pitchers were selected with Wissman rated as the ace, followed closely by another great southpaw, Big Jim Prendergast, of the Eagles. Ewell Blackwell, Gator right-hander, earned the third spot with his great last-hit work which included a no-hit game against the 764th Tankers.

124th Will Clash With 300th Rival

Football's 1943 campaign, heralded as the greatest in post history, will officially open in Doughboy Stadium on Sunday afternoon, October 3rd, when the 124th Infantry Gators, defending post champs, clash with the star-studded 300th Infantry Sabers in the first home game of the season.

The Gators, their ranks augmented by the addition of a dozen collegiate stars of last fall, will jump the gun on their Saber rivals this Saturday when they engage in a major battle at Jacksonville, Fla., against the Air Raiders of the NATTC. The 300th will warm up with a practice tilt at Draper Prison, humbled last week by the 124th to the tune of 93-0.

Bond Drive Gains

With the nation's great Third War Loan Drive nearing a climax, Fort Benning personnel continued to do "double duty" by making purchases this week which brought the post total close to its half-million dollar quota, according to a last-minute survey made by war bond officers at post headquarters Wednesday.

Reports reaching headquarters showed that $227,000 worth of bonds had been subscribed to during the big drive. This figure did not include the regular monthly pay reservations which total another $200,000, bringing the post close to its own self-set quota for the month of September.

While large amounts of the cash purchases have come through investments by organizations, a good percentage of the sales have been of Class E variety, $25 through $1,000 individual subscriptions.

Col. Burkhalter Slated To Retire

Col. Harry N. Burkhalter, commanding officer of the Academic Regiment, today announced his retirement from his command and the Army, having reached the automatic retirement age of 60 on September 6th.

The Colonel plans to leave his command within the next few days on an extended terminal leave until his actual retirement age of 60 on September 6.

He has been in command of the Academic Regiment since August 17, 1942, when it was activated as a regiment from The Infantry School Detachment.

Speaking as a commander who has risen from the ranks and seen action in two wars, Col. Burkhalter expressed the hope that the men of his regiment would continue to realize the importance of their job here and would carry on "their excellent work" under his successor.

The colonel's prime concern over his men, he said, is that they often feel "disgruntled" over their assignment here when actually they are, in their present jobs, "of more value to the army as a whole than they would be overseas as individuals."

PRIME PURPOSE
"Your prime purpose," the colonel told his men through the Mirror, regimental newspaper, "is to assist in teaching the lessons learned from the various wars and the tactical policies of the Infantry School as they apply to current situations."

"Too much emphasis cannot be placed on your doing a fine job in your particular line of work."

TRAINING IMPORTANT
"Most of the men are disappointed because they are not in combat or in a more active war."

'We Are Awfully Tired' Yank In Solomons Writes

Veteran Relates Difficulties Of Ferreting Out Japanese

"Though every man's head is 'bloody but unbowed,' we are awfully tired."

This is the message received by Sgt. Walter Majewski of the 8th Company, Fifth Training Regiment, ASTP, from Ben Newton, Fifth Sgt. Majewski's old outfit somewhere in the Southwest Pacific. Sgt. Majewski passed Newton's letter on to the BAYONET in the hope that it will serve as an incentive to soldiers and civilians safe on this side of the ocean to buy more war bonds "to keep the supply of men and munitions in a continuous stream to areas" in which our men are fighting.

Soldier Newton's letter dated August 24, 1943, follows:

"I'm writing to several former W. in the knowledge that each of you will be interested to learn something regarding the fortunes of the Regiment and Division of which you were once a member."

"I take the privilege of announcing to you that the major part of the campaign which broke the back of Japanese resistance on Guadalcanal and drove him from the jungles onto the cape from which he was both liquidated and evacuated, was conducted by your old division, and the spearhead of this attack was borne by the W—and the C—, ably supported by the Infantry during the period from Jan. 10-26, 1943."

"Outstanding among their accomplishments were the seizure of Hill 52, overlooking Henderson Field in about three hours' time, and the capture of the Jap supply base at Kukumbona."

BAYONET CHARGE

Though the long period of isolation in this pestilential hell-hole has reduced our strength through debility and our skeleton companies through evacuation, these same men seized the Munda airfield on New Guinea island in which operation the Infantry made up for lost time by distinguishing itself. For Company E— Infantry, faced with some distance to go and running out of ammunition, resorted to an old-fashioned bayonet up the hill overlooking the airport: this was suicidal in the face of machine gun and rifle fire but luck was on their side; they took the hill possession of which decided the issue at Munda. They had many wounded, but only two killed in this display of martial spirit.

"Fighting here is difficult, we believe far worse than anything in Europe or Africa. For example, this Division with its small numbers has had more men killed than the American Army of thousands of men had killed in the entire North African operation, and no one ever knew we were here. As one fellow put it—if you had 10,000 Germans in the jungle you'd have killed 1,000 of them, wounded maybe 2,000, and the rest would be ready for surrender. But the Japs? Oh, no! If you have 10,000 Japs in the jungle you have 10,000 tenacious crafty rascals to exterminate; none will surrender—not even when their position is hopeless. That you can see the formidability of the problem we are up against."

DON'T FORGET US

"So wherever you are do not forget us and pass the word that the old regiment is well on the way to receiving its second citation and has covered itself with honor and glory and brought concrete results to the Nation by its gallant fighting."

"A few of those whom you know and for whom you can blow

Med Detachment Personnel Slated On Army Hour Show

"Army Hospitalization of Sick and Wounded" will be Capt. Webster's subject, with special emphasis on field medical installations.

Captain Webster, an attorney in civilian life, entered the Army in 1941, following basic training was assigned to the Medical Department, where as an enlisted man, he served in all grades from private to master sergeant and was commissioned as 1st Lieutenant, MAC in 1942 while serving as sergeant-major of the Medical Department Training Center at Camp Rucker, Ala. He joined the Station Hospital Medical Unit in November 1942 and was promoted to his present grade of captain in June 1943.

The Medico Orchestra, composed of Cpl. A. J. Morris, pianist; Cpl. H. R. Tate, bass; Pvt. E. G. Swauger, drums; Pvt. E. W. S. Hill, saxophone, and under the direction of Sgt. "Nat" Pintelto, accordionist.

Medicos Launch War Bond Drive

Following an organization meeting on Sept. 6, the enlisted personnel of the Medical Detachment, Sections I & II launched their campaign in support of the 3rd National-wide War Bond Sale. The sales totals have averaged better than $1,000 daily.

The Medicos have set their goal at $25,000 for the month of September and every indication is that they will meet this total and in all probability exceed it. Every enlisted man of the two Medical Units has been invited to purchase at least one $25 bond above their usual purchases. The Medico campaign is being conducted by the enlisted men of the unit, headed by a Committee of Non-commissioned Officers from the various departments and dispensaries of the Detachment and Hospital.

Mr. Sgt. W. C. Thompson is serving as Chairman of the drive and Staff Sgt. C. A. Pond is acting as recorder of the sales. It is believed that the Medical Detachments were the first units at this station to start the 3rd War Loan Drive.

The Medico Campaign was the idea of and is being directed entirely by enlisted personnel. To boost sales, the unit will sponsor three War Bond Dances during the month, and close their campaign on Wednesday, Sept. 28, with a big war bond rally.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

...or how to be liked in London

That's Wizard, says the genial Britisher when he wants to pay you a compliment. Have a "Coke", says the American soldier, and in three words they see things alike. It's as true in a London garden as in a Los Angeles patio. All over the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the happy bond between friendly-minded people.

O. C. Gives Lowdown On Life On Fiji Isles

Seeking the latest information about the Fiji Islands — especially concerning the famed wine, women, and song from there? This Officer Candidate Bernard Morris, ex-sergeant in the personnel section of a unit stationed there is your man. Just back from that area to attend OCS, he has much to say about our Fiji outpost in the Pacific.

First, as to wine. Liquor was plentiful on the island when the Americans first arrived, "en masse," but it was not long before the stocks disappeared entirely and the transportation bottleneck prevented a any replenishment; thereby unintentionally turning the islands into a "dry" area. According to Morris, the bottleneck was finally broken when beer was brought in by the army, and every man was doled out two bottles a day. When asked why a little beer or coke meant so much to a man, Morris explained it my saying "it was the last of the comforts of home."

"Among the hardest things to bear," Morris said, "was the singing of the Fijians. He said 'that they had some of the most beautiful songs and voices he had ever heard. In the evenings, one would hear a group singing on one of the hill sides. The beautiful refrains that really make a man homesick.'"

He gave a vivid description of laundry methods on the islands. "Each man would pay a woman to do his washing; the washing consisted of soaking the clothes in warm soapy water and then 'acking' the clothes hard against a 'fat rock.' When questioned about the effect of this kind of washing on the buttons Morris commented that 'Sewing on buttons was a common leisure time vocation.' Tattle gale grey dye was a universal feature of clothing washed in this manner." Has Morris seen any action? Not too much; however, at the end of the winter his unit was transferred to the "X" Islands, where the Japanese sprayed them with bombs several times. "The percentage of the duds was quite high" was all Morris had to say about that portion of his experience.

Asked whether he was glad to be home, Morris said, "Yes, but now that I am back here on home soil again after being 6,000 miles away, and after being home on a 'week-day' furlough, I am more homesick than ever!" His home being in Omaha, Nebraska.

Morris has the Fourth Company as his home for the next several months and he will willingly give advice to any officers or men who feel that their next post will be in the Fiji.

Medical Officers Rate Promotion

Promotion of six captains in the Medical Corps at the Station Hospital at Fort Benning to the rank of major and the elevation of two second lieutenants in the Medical Administrative Corps to the rank of first lieutenant was announced today by Colonel Edward A. Noyes commanding officer at the Station Hospital.

Promoted to major were Captains Norman R. Shulack, chief of the neuropsychiatric section at the Station Hospital; Peter A. Drommer, assistant to the chief of surgical service; William Benenson, chief of the officers section of the medical service; John A. Bell, Jr., plans and training officer at Station Hospital Number 2; John T. Vandover, surgeon in the orthopedic section, and Jabez F. Jackson, section chief in medical service.

Second Lieutenants John J. Ciskowski, assistant adjutant at the hospital, and Thomas F. Henley, assistant to the director of dietetics, were promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Colored OC Is Scholar, Athlete, Debater

The Third Company, Third Training Regiment, boast among its candidates a combination teacher, debater, football player and man of letters in the person of Thomas Jarrett, colored candidate from Louisville, Ky.

This versatile student of 17th century literature holds an A. B. degree from Fiske University of Nashville, Tenn., and an M. A. degree from the University of Chicago. Now he wants an Lt. from the Infantry school. English is his major.

Four years of high school teaching at Central High school in Paris, Tenn., and four years of college teaching at Louisville Municipal college plus coaching debating at Knoxville college makes him a proficient teacher.

While at Fiske, Jarrett starred as an end on the varsity football team. At Fiske he also received a Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship to advance his studies at the University of Chicago.

He volunteered for the Army in January of 1943 and no sooner donned the garb of a private when he received an offer to be theatrical advisor at Fort Huachuca, Arizona, with a commission thrown in to boot. His previous enlistment, however, prevented him from accepting the offer.

Jarrett received his basic training at Camp Croft, S. C., where he qualified as expert with the M-1 rifle, automatic rifle and light machinegun. He is 30 years of age, married and makes his home in Louisville, Ky.

7 Supply Men Get Promotions

Officer Candidates of the 20th Company, of the Third Student Training Regiment, recently spent their last bivouac in Shell Creek. Everything ran smoothly until an unwelcome visitor appeared.

Gators Set For Air Raider Game

SATURDAY RIVALS—These six gridiron huskies will be lining up against each other on Saturday afternoon at Jacksonville, Fla., when the 124th Gators invade the lair of the famed Air Raiders. At the top are Lamar Davis (Benning) and Gus Letchats (Jacksonville), both former Georgia Bulldogs backs. In the middle you'll see Bob Fitzgerald (Benning), former Fordham guard, and Fred Ellis (Jacksonville), who played for both Wisconsin and the Iowa Seashawks in past seasons at tackle. Below are the rival centers, Bill Corey (Benning), ex-Columbia Lion, and Brad Eklund (Jacksonville), former University of Oregon star. (Photos of Gators by Sgt. Mel Stock, Post Signal Lab. 124th Invades Florida For Jacksonville Tilt

Fort Benning's 1942 post camps, the 124th Infantry Gators, will officially open the pigskin campaign on Saturday afternoon when they invade Jacksonville, Fla., for an Army-Navy clash with the high-flying Air Raiders of the Naval Air Technical Training Command.

Augmented by a dozen new stars, fresh from the college gridirons of last fall, the Gators will go into their first major battle of the season rated on even terms with the powerful Jacksonville eleven which has several holdovers from the 1942 Air Station Fliers, one of the best service teams in the nation.

The Gator-Air Raider battle will be played on Cadet Field at the Air Station starting at 2:15. A large crowd of sailors, marines and air cadets are expected to watch the big eleven clash at the great naval air base on the Florida east coast.

LEAVE TONIGHT

Major Red Milton, burly ex-Georgia Bulldog line star who is returning for his second year at the Gator helm, will assemble his 45-man squad late this afternoon for the Florida trip. "Big Red" hopes to put his men through a passing and punting drill at Cadet Field tomorrow afternoon and then rest them for the Saturday classic. The 124th eleven will return Sunday.

The Gators will carry Benning's banner into battle against a big, fast team that is coached by Capt. Fred Frink, a Marine officer, once of the University of Illinois. Frink has assembled a likely-looking 40-man squad of sailors, marines and air cadets that bids fair to be among the Navy's top eleven this fall.

INJURED RAIDERS

Reports received from Jacksonville early this week indicated that about 15 of the Air Raiders were suffering from minor injuries that have caused them to miss several practice sessions. However, most of the casualties will be in shape by Saturday.

Major Milton was rather uncommunicative early in the week on his starting line-up, but did state that the big Orange and Blue squad would be in excellent condition for the Air Raider clash.

HALFBACKS NAMED

Two backs who are certain to start are Roy Cestary and Lamar Davis at the halfback slots. Cestary, who played one year at Notre Dame, is the big offensive threat of the soldier eleven, operating from the tailback slot where he can pass, run or kick. Last fall he was the "Big" of post football circles and promises to be even better this season.

Davis, known as the nation's "Frankie Sinkwich" running mate last year on the Georgia Bulldogs who won the 1941 Bowdoin Bowl, will run at wingback for the Gators, as he did at Georgia, and will also play in the safety position. He is a sure thing to be a great speed will be a threat on run-backs and punts.

JOOS MAY START

Bob Joos, backfield starter, is still in doubt, but Milton has plenty of good material to draw upon. Either Lee Joos, a sophomore who was a member of the 1942 squad, or Bob White, Indiana's captain last year, will get the call at fullback. Nick Celos also is a starting eleven veteran holdover, as are batting for the blocking spot at quarterback with Iowa's Bill Staus certain to lead the team. Signals Jim Todd will spell Cestary at left half.

Along the line, the Gators will probably have Junie Belin and Alabama's Sam Sharp at the flanks, Bill Tew and Alabama's Jack McKewen at tackles, and Bob Fitzgerald and Red Howard at the guards and Columbia's Bill Corey at center. Belin, Tew and Howard were all regulars in the 1942 eleven. Tom Nash, Indiana end, and Pete Oxford, U. C. L. A. guard, are new ex-collegians who are expected to play plenty.

LETCHATS IS ACE

Against this sterling Benning array, the Naval Air Raider squad is a starting eleven boasting many ex-collegians. Probably the best back for the enemy is Gus Letchats, once a team mate of Davis and Todd at Georgia. Rated as a sure-fire star, he was declared ineligible just before the start of the 1942 Bulldog campaign.

Letchats will run on Saturday at left half in a backfield that packs plenty of speed and blocking. Surrounding the ex-Georgia will be Duke Iverson of Oregon State at quarter, Brad Davis of Arkansas State at wingback and Dominic Sanzotta at fullback.

Sanzotta, a hard-driving line cracker, was the regular fullback for the 1942 team in pro football circles last fall. He also does most of the passing for the Air Raiders. Another good Jacksonville back is Don Porter of Tulane who will alternate with Letchats.

STRONG LINE

Along the forward wall, Jacksonville will have Bill Eborch of Oregon and Pete Breeds of San Francisco U. at end with Jim Williams of South Carolina in reserve. The line of North Carolina Center Junior College and Fred Ellis of Wisconsin are a pair of 200-pound tackles. Ellis played in 1942 under Lt. Col. Bernie Storman with the famed Iowa Seashawks.

Starting guards for the Air Raiders will be Lou Campbell of Southwestern and Paul Toth of Western Reserve with Johnny Walker of North Carolina State and John Hanzel of Villanova in reserve. Jacksonville has four good centers but Oregon's Brad Eklund is certain to be the star.

gress. This is a normal reaction but is an undervaluation of their excellent work here. I have seen some active combat service and I know how important it is to have officers, men and technicians who are well trained. Actually all of the members of the Academy are doing work which is of as great a value to the army and our country as their work would be if in actual combat.

The results of the lessons you help to teach here are shown on every battlefield where American troops.

The carrying on, under my successor, of the excellent work you have been doing will be picked up by me and our labors together have not been in vain."

Col. Burkhalter began his military career at the turn of the century and has twice won the army for civilian life. But since 1920, he has concerned himself steadily with a military career. He was a member of the 1st Infantry, 1st Division, 1st Army, and served in the Philippines in 1922 and received a root in his career. He ended that phase of his military career. He then took up the study of medicine at Kansas City Medical School and was a member of the 1st Infantry and played half back on the football team and first base on the baseball team. But with a year to go for his degree, he was called to active duty in 1924 and turned to railroading.

GETS LAW DEGREE

He was a brakeman and then a ticket agent and then he worked in the wheat fields of Kansas until the urge to go to school again got the better of him. This time it was law he wanted. He attended the University of Kansas City Law School and later at Hamilton College of Law in Chicago where he got his degree.

quartermaster office, Otis Renner, purchased $5,000 of the bonds. The bonds were private, Thomas Jones, Co. A of the Infantry Tank Detachment (738th Tank Bn.), bought $4,000.

However, one of the best records of participation was established by the Station Hospital Detachment, which set a quota of 100 percent by the 10th of the month. Another organization, the 1st Student Training Regiment, set a quota of 100 percent by the 10th of the month.

AID CITY DRIVE

In addition, Fort Benning cooperated with Columbus in the premiere showing of the movie, "Action in the North Atlantic," and sold $1,179 in two nights. Admissions were by purchase of a war bond or by purchase of a war bond and a ticket for the movie.

Previously the street dance and war bond rally, held September 2, netted $4,000.

The post goal this month as announced by Major George Fink, post bond officer, was $50,000. The goal was set by a statement by Mr. Wm. Richardson, local postmaster, that that activity had recorded a cash sale of $36,000.

The 200th will invade Atlanta for its Georgia Tech battle, visiting Birmingham on Thanksgiving day and for a benefit bout with some unnamed service team and go to Daniel Field.

SPIRIT SLATE

Carl Leppolock and his 176th machine open their campaign next Saturday, October 2nd, when they oppose South Carolina in Columbia. They also will meet Tennessee at the University of Miami and Daniel Field army.

A complete and comprehensive schedule for the "Big Three" will be issued on the sports pages of this week's issue.

SPLASH PARTY AND NEW CHAMPS—The title swim meet at Russ Pool Sunday produced plenty of thrilling action as several new post champions were crowned. At top left is a swell action shot of the start in a trial heat of the 50-meter free-style. Two swimmers are already splashing in the water while the middle man is in the midst of a flying leap to catch them. At top right, Lee Croft, new diving champion, is caught by the camera at the height of his perfect backdive. Below, the new taraki (252nd F. A.), 50-meter freestyle champ; Warren Finkle (3rd STR), 50-meter backstroke winner; Hiram Hoelzer (5th TR), 50-meter breaststroke titlist; Orla Floyd (5th TR), 100-meter champ, and Lee Croft (1st PTR), the diving winner. 3rd STR Collegians Capture Post Swim Title in Hard-Fought Meet

Displaying amazing speed in the windwept waters, a husky young group of ex-collegians from the 3rd STR churned to victory on Sunday at Russ Pool to capture the 1943 post swimming title.

Comprised entirely of officer candidates from the 3rd regiment's 12th Company, the winning team swept to first place triumphs in the 150-meter relay and 50-meter backstroke, and took second and third in the 100-meter and a third in fancy diving to pile up its point total of 20 markers.

5TH REGT. SECOND

Close behind in second place, the deadweight of first in the relay even, was the team representing the 5th Training Regiment, ASTP, while the 3rd Training Regiment tied for third. Strung out behind were the 1st Parachute Training Regiment, the 1st ASTP, the 176th Infantry, and the 1st Academic Co. of the Parachute School.

The 3rd STR entry grabbed the trophy, put up by the F. B. A. A., then their crack relay team of ex-collegians gained a 100-meter dash, which drew 39 entries, was unheralded Henry Zientarski of the 252nd Field Artillery who finished ahead of the pack in the surprising time of 28.5 seconds in the finale.

WATER POLO ACE

The new dash champion is a Chicagoan and swim for a year at the University of Illinois. His real sport though is water polo and a couple years back he was a key figure on the Illinois A. C. team that captured the National AAU title in the rough-and-tumble water game.

The 50-meter breaststroke title went to Hiram Hoelzer of the 5th Regiment when he raced to victory over Bill Smith, 6th Regiment, and former national prep school titleholder. Hoelzer swam for Mt. Herman Prep in Massachusetts and was New England prep school champ in the breaststroke during 1942 and 1943.

NATIONAL CHAMP

Smith swam for Castle Heights Military Academy in Tennessee and gained the national crown in 1939. He also held the Mid-South title for four years as well as several state crowns. One of Smith's teammates at Castle Heights, Orla Floyd, captured the 100-meter breaststroke on Sunday with a great burst of speed in the second lap. Floyd also holds Mid-South titles in the 100, 220, and 440-yard events.

The fancy diving event went to Lee Croft, a husky paratrooper from the 1st Parachute Training Regiment. His execution of the three set and two optional dives from the 3-meter board was near perfect as he gained the triumph. Officiating at the 1943 title event was Lieut. Arthur T. Monahan, a former scholastic swim coach around Erie, Pa. Carbons of winners were awarded to all winners in the individual events while the relay victors will receive bronze medals.

taken, we knew that instead of a direct invasion of Alaska, the fleet had turned and landed there. That gave us more time and we used it to every advantage.

After the first crisis was over, Capt. Parker and his companions continued to fly men and equipment to fortify the islands of the Aleutian chain and other points in Alaska.

LAND ANYWHERE

At the time that Capt. Parker was flying men and equipment, Capt. Parkey was manning one of the all-too-few planes then in Alaska. He had been sent to Alaska in March, 1941, to help pioneer in putting in fields and to help explore the country by aerial photography. In those days they landed on beaches, flat hillsides, the frozen ocean, or frozen lakes. Maps didn't show elevations. Some lakes and mountains were shown on existing maps as miles from their true positions. As a result of the Army's aerial exploration, however, all of Alaska south of Nome now is accurately surveyed.

Friends Dine Fulton On Eve Of Retirement

Brigadier General Walter Scott Fulton, commanding officer of Fort Benning who will be retired September 30 after 43 years of army service, was tendered a dinner at the Ralston Friday night by a group of close personal friends, including directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

T. G. Reeves, president of the chamber, presented General Fulton with a certificate of honorary membership attesting his "distinguished service" to the community of Columbus during his long association with Fort Benning. "We never expect to have an abler or more understanding commander at Fort Benning than you have been," said Mr. Reeves, "and we all are proud and happy that the severing of an official association means merely the beginning of closer personal association through your efficient secretary, Walter Pike."

Mr. Reeves also presented to General Fulton a handsome silver tray on behalf of the directors of the chamber.

EXPRESSES THANKS

General Fulton, in responding, thanked Mr. Reeves warmly, and expressed special appreciation of the close cooperation of the chamber with Fort Benning, especially through your efficient secretary, Walter Pike.

At the speakers' table besides Mr. Reeves and General Fulton were W. C. Bradley and Frank Lumpkin, Major General Lindsay McDonald Silvester, commanding general of the Seventh Armored Division, Brigadier General George H. Weems, assistant commander of the Infantry School, and Colonel John P. Edgerley, post executive officer.

Colonel Edgerley introduced the members of General Fulton's official party which included, in addition to those above named, the following officers: Colonel George F. Jacobs, Colonel Ridgely Gatter, Colonel Stephen B. Massey, Colonel H. E. Potter, Colonel Albert J. Bain, Lt. Colonel John C. Albright, Lt. Colonel William C. Coumbour, Lt. Colonel J. D. Rosenberg, Captain Jackson, aide to General Silvester, and Lt. General K. Marquardt, aide to General Fulton.

PLANS TO LIVE HERE

General Fulton entered West Point in 1910, and has seen extensive service throughout America and its territorial possessions. He served for four years on the General Staff of the War Department in Washington, coming here as post inspector in 1940.

He became post executive officer, and later commanding officer of Fort Benning, and is among a large number of "retirement age" officers who are now being relieved of duty pursuant of a new War Department policy. He ends his army service September 30, and plans to live here.

G. I. Bread 3c Per Pound

It costs Uncle Sam an average of a little over three cents a pound to feed his soldiers at Fort Benning whose bread baked by his nephews in the service at his own bakery on the post, according to a report issued by Captain Marcus E. Cooper, Post Sales Officer.

The report, covering the operation of the Fort Benning bakery shows that over 258 tons of flour are used in an average month's operation.

The bakery here is one of the Quartermaster bakeries constructed at the various camps in the southeast to insure that the soldiers in training have sufficient bread without putting too great a load on the commercial bakeries serving civilians.

The bakery officers in charge of each plant and the sergeants who oversee the actual baking of the bread, are graduates of the school in training have sufficient bread without putting too great a load on the commercial bakeries serving civilians.

The report for the month shows that the Fort Benning bakery used 331,238 pounds of flour and produced 790,258 pounds of bread, or 149 pounds of bread for every 100 pounds of flour used, at a cost of 33.006 cents per pound of bread produced. Army bread is baked in two-pound loaves while the ordinary commercial loaf weighs about a pound.

This Is The Way We Like Our Bonds, Nafoolin

Staff Sergeant George King, Division Headquarters Company, might be named the smartest war bond salesman in the "Lucky 7th" Armored Division on the strength of a promotion scheme "dreamed up" recently to aid the Third War Loan Drive.

To "doubtless Thomases" who hesitated to buy bonds because there had been some delay in receiving them after they were paid for last summer, Sgt. King made the following proposal: "If you pay cash for a bond today and it is not delivered to you personally the same day, I'll pay you the price of another $15.75 bond."

Pvt. Sebastian Bruno immediately took option on the sergeant's offer and laid $15.75 on the line. Two hours later his bond was handed to him by Sgt. King who sold 13 more bonds on the spot to astonished G.I.s.

On the first two days of the drive this enterprising enlisted man sold 30 men in his company on the idea and "backing their attack" with bonds. Now more than 50 per cent have invested a share in America and their future.

Sgt. King's home is in Decatur, Texas. He is currently serving with the Hq. Co. Medical Detachment.

MAJ. GEN. JOSEPH SWING, acting commanding general of the Airborne Command, pins wings on Pvt. R. R. Daly, Clarkdale, Ark., who happened to be the one to make the two hundred thousandth jump at the Parachute School, Fort Benning, Ga.

200,000th 'Chute Jump Made At Fort

It was a soft and happy landing for Pvt. R. R. Daly, parachute school student at Fort Benning, who made the two hundred thousandth jump Friday at the post. He is the son of Mrs. Angela Daly, Clarkdale, Ark.

There was no ceremony when he bailed out since he was one of 36 men who came out of three planes and others continued to jump throughout the morning.

However, Maj. Gen. Joseph Swing, acting commanding officer of the Airborne Command; Col. Ridgely Gatter, commanding officer of the Parachute School; and Lt. Col. J. W. Coutts, assistant commander, all dashed out through the brush to congratulate Daly. The general then pinned wings on the pleased jumper.

Army parachute training began in May, 1940, but actual jumps were not made until July of that year. The Parachute school, however, was not formed until May, 1942, when the training program was intensified.

During the early training program at Fort Benning, there have been but six fatalities, these were mainly caused by human errors. Chute officers contend parachute is the safest method of travel.

Even Shoes Are At Attention In R. C. Inspection

Lt. Clifford A. Brown, company commander, 10th company, Second Battalion, Special Training Regiment, at Fort Benning was making his weekly inspection of enlisted men's quarters.

Row after row of spick and span cots, lockers, and highly shined shoes properly lined under cots with each soldier standing at attention were awaiting him.

Down the aisle he went. Soldier after soldier was inspected and passed until "Soldier, what's wrong with those shoes," he asked pointing to a single pair in the row with heels together and toes out. "Sir, those shoes are at 'tention," Pvt. Clarence Jones, colored, replied.

FRIENDS MEET AT MESS

While eating dinner at a United States Army Eighth Air Force station in England recently, First Lt. J. F. Neyenhouse, of Plattsburg, N. Y., a bomber pilot, saw a private whose face was familiar, waiting on another table.

Spirits Lose Many Officers

In the last few months, several officers of the 176th Infantry, have left for assignments to other posts and in some cases, other branches of the service.

Lt. Col. Robert B. Rose, formerly regimental executive officer and recently graduated from Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kan., is now serving in Indiana, while Lt. Col. Luther S. Diggs, a classmate of Col. Rose, is at an overseas station.

Among those who have joined the Parachute troops are Major John N. Apperson, Capt. Wm. Meany, Lieut. John Sorrells and Lt. Lloyd Compton. These four officers are all here at Benning, but are awaiting orders to leave.

At Camp Lee, Va., Capt. William W. Mason, who left the 176th in June is now an executive officer of a replacement training battalion.

Another captain, who conducted the regimental NCO School and also served in several training companies, William R. Carpenter, is now a major at Indianapolis, Ind.

Five other officers, now overseas, are Captain C. R. Baldassarre, Major T. E. Matheson, Chaplain Wm. E. Adams, Chaplain V. F. Mallick, and Chaplain Edwin C. Carter.

Colonel Claypool ASTP Executive

Lt. Col. Burriss E. Claypool has been appointed executive officer for the ASTP Basic Training Center of the Infantry School, after the announcement by Colonel Wilson M. Spann, commanding officer.

Prior to his assignment with the ASTP, Colonel Claypool was executive officer for the First Student Training Regiment where he served since May 1941, first as supply officer and later as executive.

He was called to active duty early in 1941 and his first assignment was with the Infantry School Service Command.

Colonel Claypool was educated at the College of the Pacific and the University of Southern California and at the time of his call to duty was vice principal of the Arcadia High School, Arcadia, Cal. He is also a graduate of the advanced officer course of The Infantry School.

Captain Wight Was On 116-Day Campaign In N. Africa, Sicily

Officer Candidates of the 10th Company Third Student Training Regiment are going to learn a few tricks gained from active participation in prolonged combat with the assumption of the company commanded by Capt. Russell E. Wight, veteran of the North African and Sicilian campaigns.

Captain Wight, a soft-spoken, modest officer, fought the French at Oran, underwent 100 days of continuous fighting in Tunisia and was in Sicily for seven days when his orders came through returning to the United States and The Infantry School. He returned wearing the Purple Heart for wounds suffered in the Mateur area and the Silver Star for the part he played in his Division's halting the 10th and 21st German Panzer Divisions.

The Captain commanded a rifle company in his division and his company received two citations during the Tunisian fighting. The captain suffered severe facial injuries when he was hit at Mateur but he declined hospitalization and continued forward with his men. During the fighting at Kasseran Pass, which won him the Silver Star, Captain Wight was bowled over and defeated by an artillery shell.

"I think I've run out of 'free tickets' now," the captain says with a smile. He recollected that a German 88 shell went 18 inches over his head and he came out of that one without a scratch although he was deafened again and remained deaf for several days.

NIGHT PATROLS' ROLE

As for tips to the officer candidates, the captain declared one phase of training they ought to concentrate on is night patrolling. Some of the French native soldiers encountered, he said, "thought nothing of crawling on their bellies for a half mile and keeping absolutely quiet."

Patrols, he said by way of example, must be used frequently against the Germans even when the enemy is in retreat. "The Germans," he said, "are past masters at rear-guard fighting."

Physical fitness, moreover, can not be overemphasized and an officer must always be consistent

Men's Chorus Gives Sunday Religious Recital

Every Sunday morning between the hours of nine-thirty and ten o'clock, the combined voices of the Third Student Training Regiment Men's Chorus roll gently over the Harmony Church area, creating a very beautiful and religious atmosphere.

Through the cooperation of Chaplain Billman, the chorus presents the broadcast over a loudspeaking system mounted on a jeep outside the stately portals of Chapel five. In addition to the broadcast, the chorus, under the direction of Candidate Tom Millard, will sing a special Sunday service. With the assistance of the organist, William Wardlaw, the chorus has added much to the service, and it is the hope of the director that any men interested, whether they can read music or not, will report to the chapel at nine o'clock Sunday morning and join in the singing.

To Candidate Mohr and the men of the 15th Company, who graduate this week, goes much of the credit for the organization and success of the group.

Camp Blanding, Fla.—Pvt. Albert Schindler is a sport. After a bill roller had picked his finger three times without success in a recent blood test, Schindler made him an offer. "Have another try," he suggested. "They're three for a dime."

In his dealings with his men, "You can not be a hard guy to be his pal the next," he asserted.

Altogether, Captain Wight was overseas a year. A reserve officer, he obtained his commission upon the completion of his ROTC training at Boston University. He entered upon active duty in 1941. Upon coming here, he said, he was favorably impressed with the opportunity future officers have to "break in" before going into the field. Such opportunity was denied him; he went into active service after several years of reserve officer inactivity, the result of his preoccupation with his civilian career as an office manager and personnel man with a Boston concern.

Uncle Sam Hounds Poor OC for Equipment He Turned In On Aleutians

Candidate Robertson, of the Third Student Training Regiment, isn't such a happy fellow these days. Besides having to worry about graduation, which is only a week or two off, he has something else very much on his mind. It seems as though this youthful Sergeant here at the 20th Company was started by a column of red tape under Candidate Robertson's name. It listed 1 G. I. Mortar; 1 G. I. Sight; 1 pair of G. I. field glasses; 6 G. I. cleaning rods; 1 G. I. kit of spare parts; plus several other minor items of government equipment. And buddy when Uncle Sam lists these things in red it means that somebody's going to shell out.

Of course Candidate Robertson was immediately called in and asked to explain why he was running around with one G. I. Mortar, etc. and if he'd please unpack that extra barracks bag that he had hidden under his bunk and give the things back to the government like a nice little boy.

HE EXPLAINS
By this time our friend Robertson was a pretty sore candidate and we think his explanation of the enormous bill and the missing G. I. equipment is a pretty good one.

Before being shipped to the Infantry School from the fair waters of the Aleutians to attend O. C. S., the Supply Sergeant in that northern wasteland was busy checking off Robertson's equipment when he suddenly ran out of black typewriter ribbon and in the last minute rush had to resort to the only kind that was available, which now appears so plentiful in nice red letters besides Candidate Robertson's name.

So as time ticks on and poor Candidate Robertson grows more weary by the constant hounding of the big bad Benning Supply Sergeant he spends his evenings frantically sending telegrams to that far-off Aleutian base and asking them, "Won't they please do something about it?" And in between telegrams our bewildered candidate goes around cussing and swearing under his breath that life in the army is certainly a bunch of red tape in more ways than one.

IT CAN'T BE SO

"The members of Company A, 300th Infantry of The Infantry School, have now seen 'everything' in the Army. A few nights ago, the company was treated to a roast chicken dinner and beer party. But that wasn't 'everything.' When the affair was over, the non-commissioned officers of the company joined the kitchen police in cleaning up the dishes. And the first sergeant of the company, a kindly soul named Taylor, did a tailoring job on the dishes. He washed them!"

Military Personnel Get Ration Book 3 At County Office

Military personnel who are on separate rations but failed for any reason to make application for ration book No. 3 prior to Sept. 11, must now go through the Muscogee County War Rationing Board in Columbus to secure their books. It was announced by Sgt. Louis Lipp, secretary of the Fort Benning branch of the board.

Any member of the family may secure the books, however, he pointed out so that it is not necessary for the soldier himself to appear. Books one and two must be presented before book 3 can be issued, but in cases of newlyweds or others who may not have had necessary for books one and two previously, they can be applied for at the same time in order to secure book 3.

Brazilians Bid Post Farewell

Colonel Aginaldo Calado de Castro and Colonel Joao de Segadas Viana, leaders of the Brazilian officers currently attending the Infantry School, acted as hosts to officers of the school and post at an informal farewell reception held at Fort Benning's Skit club.

The Brazilian officers mingled for the last time amongst their friends and hosts of the past eight weeks. Captain Calo de Castro, known for his musical compositions and the presentation to the Infantry School of his musical march "Pelo Brazil, Pela Victoria" was among those present.

The Brazilian officers have been attending special classes and special demonstrations since their arrival in July and have been stationed with the 1st Student Training Regiment, commanded by Colonel John S. Rooms.

Among their many American colleagues present were General Leven C. Allen, General George Woems, General Henry P. Perrine, Colonel Harold E. Potter, Colonel John P. Edgerly, Colonel Joseph C. Addington, Colonel Thornton Chase, Colonel Philip H. Kron, Colonel Robert S. Miller, Colonel Sterling M. Crim and many other school and post notables.

Coloel Castro and Viana were Lieutenant Colonel Joao Batista Rangel, Major Alvaro Alves da Silva Brago, Major Iracy de Castro, Major Armando Bandeira de Moraes, Captain Mozal da Lima.

Panthers Slate Show Tonight

Two-Hour Musical To Be Presented In Amphitheater

The Benning Panthers, representing the Service Battalion of the Third Student Training Regiment, The Infantry School, will take over the regimental amphitheater Thursday evening, September 23, presenting a two-hour musical show. Already popular at the post, the Panthers are drifting from the vein of sports and reaching deep into the entertainment ability of the Service Battalion, coming up with a musical show entitled "Swing High, Swing Low."

Pfc. Joseph Cole, who prior to his induction into the service, appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra as a guest singer, will highlight the show. Cole first won recognition in 1941, when he appeared in New York's Town Hall as a baritone, winning honors over 400 contestants for the leading male role in the opera Carmen. Lena Horn and Dorothy Maynor were among the judges that first recognized the outstanding ability of Pfc. Joseph Cole.

From that day on, Cole has appeared in concerts throughout the United States and Canada visiting the White House as a guest of the President and the President's pianist, toured the nation just a few years back, with one of the outstanding swing trios. Smith will present a novelty piano skit. Pvt. James Bailey, who recently gained wide acclaim as a composer and singer of popular music, will render a number of his original songs including: "What Will the Neighbors Say," and "Jumpin' on K.P. Time."

Music for the production will be provided by the Panther Dance Orchestra under the direction of Cpl. Harcourt McLean. The Panther Choral Group, consisting of 18 male voices in harmony, will feature Wilbert Powell in spirituals that have already brought much favorable comment for the group.

Others who will appear in the Service Battalion show are: Lewis Simmons, flashy dancer; Alfred Jones, comedian with a style all his own; and James Little's fleet footed dancer.

The production is under the direction of 1st Lt. Jack Gushin, Service Battalion A. & R. officer.

Chinese Soldier Wants To Avenge Ravaged Home City

Technician 4th Grade Yim F. Look, of the 24th Company, 1st Student Training Regiment, who was born in Canton, that great Chinese seaport that Japan seized five years ago, plundering and killing thousands of civilians in the process is now attending the Enlisted Communication Course at The Infantry School, Look is patiently preparing for the day when he can return to China with the Army of the United States and help drive the Jap invader from his ravaged homeland.

Little wonder he's anxious to tangle with the Nipponese again. Living in peaceful Honolulu, Hawaii, on December 7, 1941, Look heard the sneak Jap attack blast the Sabbath morning quiet and saw their planes attack unsuspecting Pearl Harbor.

Next day he volunteered for Territorial Guard duty and the following April enlisted in the Army. Look was assigned first to the 288th Infantry, formerly part of the Hawaiian National Guard and in the early part of this year was sent to the States on a cadre.

Always remember that when scouting close to the enemy at night your best protection from observation is silent movement.

SMITH-GRAY CORP.
CUSTOM TAILORS SINCE 1845

Change into a Smith-Gray custom-tailored Officers' Uniform

The difference between the ordinary ready-made Officer's Uniform and a Smith-Gray Uniform custom-tailored to individual measure, is the difference between the rigid pattern of the classroom and the personal initiative of officers in action.

For while we are tough and unyielding as an Inspection Officer in our fidelity to the strictly military features - we unflinchingly emphasize the value of individual distinction.

The result is a uniform of ultra-smartness, perfectly fitted to your figure, designed with the refinements and exacting attention to detail essential to command respect for appearance and bearing.
